OCTOBER 2021

OCTOBER IS THE MONTH OF OUR BLESSED MOTHER'S ROSARY

Grand Knight's Message:

Dear Brothers:

As I write this, things in the province are slowly opening and I am hoping we will soon be able to have in person meetings and get back to our new norm. I hope you and your family had a great Thanksgiving and were able to spend some much-needed quality time with your loved ones. For Thanksgiving our Council held a food drive in support of the Mississauga Food Bank; we are awaiting the final total of boxes and weight, and I will advise you when we get it.

October 15th was our Worthy Chaplin, Reverend Father Mario's birthday; wish him a "HAPPY BIRTHDAY" when you see him.

In the near future, our Council, with the help of our Worthy Chaplin, Reverend Father Mario and our Lay Youth Minister, Vlad, will be holding a fund raiser to help buy one of our brothers much needed medical equipment for himself and his daughter, your help will be greatly appreciated.

Last Sunday we held our installation of Officers. I would like to thank our Worthy Chaplin, Reverend Father Mario, all the ladies that attended, our District Deputy SK Jacinto Fernandez and all the brothers that participated and helped with the ceremony. It was excellent and well worth seeing it being performed.

As you are aware, our Council's new initiative is praying the Rosary every Thursday evening over Zoom at 8:00 PM; check your inbox for my invitation to all of you to join us. If you would like to take part in reading or responding to any of the mysteries, please let me know. I would like to thank Brother Mark Jennings for his hard work in preparing the slides that we use for the Rosary.

Check out our Facebook page to stay up to date with our Council work: God willing, I hope to be able to see you all in person at our November meeting.

As I end my message for October, I hope and pray that you and your family are well and have not been affected by this Pandemic.

If you know of any Brother or Member of his family that is sick or in distress, please let me know.

Stay safe, thank you and God Bless

Financial Secretary's Report:

Hi Brothers:

IS YOUR RELIGION AN END OR A MEANS?

Fr Richard Heilman October 12, 2021

IS YOUR RELIGION AN END OR A MEANS?

Jesus is not shy in rebuking the religious leaders of his day (Go Jesus!). Today's Gospel is not different. "You wash the outside but not the inside. You fools!"

The main point Jesus is making is our propensity to treat our religion like a job where we punch the clock and meet the minimal obligations of the job description.

The Sacraments are not meant to be an end but a means to empower us and inspire us to "go out" and change the world. Yet, if we are not careful, we reduce faith to meeting the minimal obligations, and then give everything else in our life priority over our missions. Many of these may be noble.

When I was growing up, my parents modeled this for us. Yes, we fulfilled the minimal expectations of our faith – with joy and zeal – and then my parents would, literally, look around to see how they (we) could "help." We followed mom and dad like little ducklings to every way our parish, community and country needed us. As a result, all of us kids are either in Church ministry ourselves, or among the most active in our parishes and communities.

I've been a priest for 33 years, and I have seen it over and over again. A small remnant "gets it," while everyone else either is in a "punch the clock" type of religion, or not even following the basic obligations.

One striking example of this was when we had a men's schola formed that was almost 20-men-strong of the most on fire men you ever want to meet.

(Schola definition is - an ancient Roman school. 2 [Late Latin, from Latin]: an ancient Roman association of persons (as military men) sharing a common interest or profession)

They were so talented; I was looking into us creating a CD. Most of them were just starting their families. At one point, someone inserted the narrative, "Remember, your family is your primary vocation" (I heard that, and I was like, "Uh oh") Well, of course it is. But this was related in the context of giving license to limit or cease involvement in the schola, because any non-family activity is wrong. Almost overnight, after this narrative was inserted, the schola went down to just a couple of guys. I tried to relate that they were "giving witness" to their children with their involvement in this ministry, but the "narrative" won out.

(I'm hoping to revive the schola. My narrative will be, "For just two hours of your time to practice, once a week, you have an opportunity to give countless witness and inspiration to the world and, most especially, your children." Please pray)

You can see that the "idea" proposed was that venturing out in ministry to the world (usually through parish voluntary activities) is irresponsible to your family rather than inspirational to your family. According to my parents, nothing could be further from the truth.

Thanks, mom and dad, for helping your kids understand that "sacrifice" for God's missions, which can mean washing dishes at the pancake breakfast, is the greatest example and teaching you can give to your children (there were seven of us). We're not called to "punch the clock" with our religious obligations, and then give everything except God's missions priority in our lives.

And you know what, mom and dad? The lesson we learned was that it wasn't the end of the world that you weren't at every soccer practice and game, because of your commitment to whatever mission of God you were involved with at the time. Instead, you taught us that it is far more worthy to join forces with our Christian brothers and sisters to "go out" and change the world. Love you, mom and dad!! RIP.

This article makes us think about the old argument that being involved as Knights is somehow irresponsible to our families. Father's last three paragraphs show how our commitment to volunteer work could be discerned.

Bro Mike

And on a lighter note;

Bloopers from people writing about the Bible:

In the first book of the bible, Guinness, God got tired of creating the world, so He took the Sabbath off.

Adam and Eve were created from an apple tree. One of their children, Cain, asked: "Am I my brother's son?"

Noah's wife was called Joan of Ark. Noah built an ark, which the animals came on to in pears.

God asked Abraham to sacrifice Isaac on Mount Montezuma. Jacob, son of Isaac, stole his brother's birthmark. One of Jacob's son, Joseph, gave refuse to the Israelites.

Pharaoh forced the Hebrew slaves to make bread without straw. Moses led the Hebrews to the Red Sea, where they made unleavened bread which is bread without any ingredients.

The Egyptians were all drowned in the dessert. Afterward, Moses went up on Mount Cyanide to get the ten amendments.

Moses died before he ever reached Canada. Then Joshua led the Hebrews in the battle of Geritol.

The greatest miracle in the Bible is when Joshua told his son to stand still, and he obeyed him.

David was a Hebrew king skilled at playing the liar. He fought with the Finklesteins, a race of people who lived in Biblical times.

Solomon, one of David's sons, had 300 wives and 700 porcupines.

When Mary heard that she was the mother of Jesus, she sang the Magna Carta.

Jesus enunciated the Golden Rule, which says to do one to others before they do one to you. He also explained, "a man doth not live by sweat alone."

It was a miracle when Jesus rose from the dead and managed to get the tombstone off the entrance.

The people who followed the Lord were called the 12 decibels. The epistles were the wives of the apostles.

One of the opossums was St. Matthew who was a taximan.

Chancellor's Report

Brothers:

It was a true pleasure and honour to attend this year's Installation of Officers Ceremony on Sunday, October 10th, 2021. For those of you that have not had the privilege of attending one in the past, I encourage you to take part next year as it was truly a special moment of celebrating our commitment to serve our Lord through serving our community.

I also take this time to encourage all Brother Knights to take part in our activities. As the pandemic restrictions lift, we have an opportunity to resume our duties as Knights of Columbus. If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to me or any of the executive members for more information.

And so naturally, a prayer for all Brother Knights:

Knight's Prayer

*Make us always aware that as your Knights, we are constantly observed, our faith judged, and our Order appreciated. Accept, O Mary, this renewed pledge of fealty and devotion, of Thy Servants, the Knights of Columbus.
Amen.*

In a special way, we also pray for our fellow Brother Knights throughout the world suffering of illness and ailments. That the Lord bring peace and comfort to their hearts.

Remembering the Battle of Lepanto: 450 Years Ago

COMMENTARY: Our world today would look very different if not for Our Lady of Victory's miracle at Lepanto 450 years ago this October.

'The Battle of Lepanto' by Paolo Veronese (photo: Public Domain / Public Domain)

Paul Kengor Vatican October 7, 2021

On Aug. 2, 1571, at Famagusta — the besieged and last remaining Christian outpost on the island of Cyprus — Marcantonio Bragadin and Astorre Baglioni, two Venetian commanders, surrendered to the Ottoman Turk commander, Lala Mustafa Pasha.

The battle at Famagusta had been a bloodbath, all too typical of the era, with a Christian force of fewer than 10,000 utterly overwhelmed by a Muslim force of more than 100,000. The Christians fought to the death, suffering upward of 90% casualties.

Bragadin and Baglioni had been assured honorable terms of surrender, with promises that they and the survivors would keep not only their dignity but their lives. When they went to Mustafa's tent, they instead were immediately arrested. Baglioni was beheaded on the spot. Bragadin, the governor general of Famagusta, would not be so lucky. He would be turned into an example.

Mustafa himself pulled out a blade and cut off Bragadin's right ear. He then ordered his lieutenants to slice off Bragadin's left ear and nose. Bragadin's plight would only get worse. For nearly two weeks he was stuffed in an open cage and exposed to the intense sun without food and little water. He was offered freedom on the fourth day of his captivity — if he converted to Islam. He refused. Historian Roberto de Mattei explains what happened next to Bragadin:

On August 17 he was hung from the mast of his own ship and scourged with over one hundred lashes, then he was forced to carry a heavy basket full of stones and sand on his shoulders through the streets of Famagusta until he collapsed. He was then brought back to the main square of the city and chained to a column, upon which a Genoese renegade began to slowly flay him alive from the shoulders down. The Venetian commander endured the martyrdom with heroic courage, continuing to recite the Miserere and to invoke the name of Christ until, after his arms and torso had been skinned, he cried out: "In manus tuas Domine commendo spirituum meum," and expired. It was three in the afternoon on August 17, 1571. Bragadin's body was then quartered, and with his flayed skin stuffed with straw and cotton and clothed with the garments and insignia of command, was carried in a macabre procession through the streets of Famagusta and then hung from the mast of a galley, which carried him to Constantinople as a trophy, together with the heads of the other Christian leaders.

In his fascinating new biography of Pope St. Pius V, Italian historian Roberto de Mattei presents the case of Bragadin and Famagusta for an important reason: When the news of the massacre reached Pope Pius V and fellow Christians several weeks later, there was outrage. This was the final straw. There was a commitment to do something about it. There was also prayer. The Pope increased his prayers and his fasting, dedicating many hours per day to prayer and three days per week to fasting.

Pius V had been pope for only one year, coming in just a year after the Siege at Malta, where the heroic and extraordinary Knights of Malta had defended not only their island but much of the Mediterranean and Europe. Had the Knights failed at Malta in 1565, all of Europe could have faced a series of episodes like Famagusta. Pius V became pope the next year, in 1566, the start of a short but utterly pivotal papacy.

Pius V knew how precarious this moment was. Various supreme pontiffs had ordered Crusades to try to defend Christians from Muslim attacks dating back 500 years to the late 11th century. Virtually all of them ended in failure. The Ottomans had reveled in a long run of conquests under Suleiman the Magnificent, who since the 1520s had wiped out Christians and captured their territory, killing and enslaving many.

This had to be stopped. And now was the moment.

Pius V, in a remarkable display of diplomacy as much as piety, strove to assemble a counterforce to stop the Ottomans. Not all of Europe's Christian leaders were on board, with more of them (such as Charles IX of France) spurning the Pope rather than supporting him, to his great frustration. The Pope did, however, manage to pull together a force that become known as the Holy League, which included the Spanish Empire, the Papal States, Venice, Genoa, Tuscany and (among others) the Knights of Malta. They were led most notably by the great Marcantonio Colonna and Don Juan of Austria.

The two sides were ready for battle, which came at dawn on Oct. 7 at the entrance of the Gulf of Patras. More than 100,000 men and hundreds of ships squared off in the water. As de Mattei relates, the supreme Turkish commander, Ali Pasha, stood aboard his flagship, the Sultana, in the center of an alignment of Muslim ships shaped like a massive crescent moon. His Sultana flew a massive banner brought from Mecca with the name of Allah embroidered in gold letters 28,000 times. His opponent, Don Juan, wore around his neck a relic of the True Cross given to him by Pius V.

That morning the Christian forces all attended Mass on their respective ships and received absolution. The Pope had delegated Capuchins to the papal ships, Jesuits to the Spanish ships, and Dominicans and Franciscans to the others.

This was truly a spiritual battle.

The two sides engaged in a vicious exchange. What literally turned the tide for the Holy League was a sudden shift in the wind deemed nothing less than miraculous. After about five hours of battle, the Turks were defeated.

"The sea was full of dead men, tables, clothes," wrote one eyewitness, "the sea was mostly bright red [with blood]." Among those freed were more than 15,000 men who had been held as slaves by the Turks.

"For the first time in a century the Mediterranean was free," writes de Mattei. "From that day forward the Ottoman Empire began its long decline."

It did indeed. That was the crucial bigger picture. Between the Christian victories at the Battle of Lepanto in 1571 and the Siege of Malta in 1565, Europe was spared. Had the Christian defenders lost those battles, my relatives from Calabria in Italy, not to mention the people of Sicily and a much larger area, would either have been killed, taken into slavery or forced to convert to Islam. And Rome — that is, the Vatican itself — would have been next in the crosshairs. Many of us today would not be Christians but Muslims.

The victories were celebrated throughout Europe by Catholics and Protestants alike. Though the two had been pitted against one another most of the century because of the bitter split caused by Martin Luther and the Reformation, all Christians were united in gratitude for the epic defense of their faith and way of life.

As for Pius V, he credited the Lord and the intercession of the Blessed Mother, in the dual roles of Our Lady of Victory and Our Lady of the Rosary. As de Mattei details, at the very hour of the victory on Oct. 7, far away from the high seas, Pius V had had an inspiration — something had filled him a certain sense that the Holy League had persevered. "Let us go and thank God," he told his cardinals assembled, "because at this very moment our armada has obtained victory."

It had indeed, though official confirmation did not arrive until two weeks later, late at night via courier. Awakened in the middle of the night, the Pope broke out in tears of joy and invoked the words of Simeon: "Lord, now let your servant depart in peace" (Luke 2:29).

Six months later, the 68-year-old Pontiff, only six years into his papacy, departed this life in peace.

The whole ordeal took its toll on the Pope as well as the world. And our world today would look very different if not for what happened at Lepanto 450 years ago this October.

Pray the ROSARY (SPECIAL INTENTION THIS OCTOBER)

A field agent like me who is blessed to be doing this great work has personal stories of the chaos and disorder that a devastated family stares at when there is a sudden loss. If our goal is to protect Catholic families from the near devastation that our Blessed founder faced, then I have to tell the story of how I can help my brother knights. The process of making sure one has adequate protection for the family is not painful; in fact since we are brother knights serving brother knights, it is often a time of not only helping to protect all that is important to a family, but also a shared experience that leads to an abiding friendship. There are two stories I'd like to relate.

The first is about a young boy named Julius. When Julius was 7 years old his mother, Irene, who was 37, died of cancer. His father, Norman, had two teenage girls along with 7 year old Julius to support and raise. The family was forced to rely on the help and generosity of friends and relatives because Irene died without life insurance. Julius excelled at sports, especially football and his dad spent what little free time he had fostering Julius and his talent. Julius later admitted that he “was handed a life lesson early, growing up with one parent. It wasn’t the easiest life—my dad sacrificed a lot.”

Fast forward to Julius some 30 years later and he is married, has a wife and two children. He’s done quite well for himself both professionally and financially. He has had a distinguished career and he has a considerable amount of life insurance to protect his family. Julius understands protection quite well after the early life he experienced. He understands the hardships of a family that loses a parent and what the children must go through. In his professional life he enjoyed considerable success because of those that protected him.

For 13 years he was protected in his career. You see that protection for Julius came in the form of 300 pound offensive linemen...nobody called him Julius. His nickname was “Boomer”...Boomer Esiason—a four time Pro Bowler, an NFL Most Valuable Player and a Walter Peyton NFL Man of the Year. Most importantly, a husband to Cheryl and a father to Sydney and Gunnar.

“Life happens at the most unexpected of times, and life insurance is about protecting the future and the people you love,” Boomer says. “Remember, if something happens and you haven’t done the planning, the people you leave behind will feel the brunt of your mistakes.”

The other story is not similar at all. It’s about a member of the Knights of Columbus. He passed away recently and like in Boomer’s family, left behind a spouse and several young children. There were no whispered worries at the funeral home. There was no GoFundMe page to raise money. There is no concern that the children will not go to college or that the wedding he promised his daughter will not take place. No, their home and future are secure. Who was that knight? I don’t know; you don’t hear about those men. Because the council didn’t have to have a spaghetti dinner or pass the hat. But I assure you he was out there. But you’ll never know it...because he planned.

Give me a call today to discuss how the Knights of Columbus can bring that peace of mind to you and your family.

Vivat Jesus !

The Story of Our Lady of the Rosary

St. Pius V established this feast in 1573. The purpose was to thank God for the victory of Christians over the Turks at Lepanto—a victory attributed to the praying of the rosary. Clement XI extended the feast to the universal Church in 1716.

The development of the rosary has a long history. First a practice developed of praying 150 Our Father's in imitation of the 150 Psalms. Then there was a parallel practice of praying 150 Hail Mary's. Soon a mystery of Jesus' life was attached to each Hail Mary. Though Mary's giving of the rosary to St. Dominic is recognized as a legend, the development of this prayer form owes much to the followers of St. Dominic. One of them, Alan de la Roche, was known as "the apostle of the rosary." He founded the first Confraternity of the Rosary in the 15th century. In the 16th century, the rosary was developed to its present form—with the 15 mysteries: joyful, sorrowful, and glorious. In 2002, Pope John Paul II added five Mysteries of Light to this devotion.

Do you struggle with praying the rosary: finding time, fighting distractions, worrying about your mind wandering? In Praying the Rosary Like Never Before, Edward Sri offers practical suggestions that come from the rosary's tradition and, most especially, St. John Paul II.

These helpful tips will make the rosary a constant companion through the different seasons, moments, and challenges we all face. These tips serve as easy on-ramps for those who don't pray the rosary regularly and will motivate avid devotees of the rosary to go deeper with the Lord.

O great and glorious God, you imbued your holy priest, Father Michael J. McGivney, with deep priestly virtue and especially with pastoral concern for the poor, the orphan, the widow, for the Christian education of youth, for the protection of the faith of the working man of his day.

Now that his priestly ministry continues to spread to countless millions throughout the world through the efforts and influence of the Order of the Knights of Columbus, which Father McGivney founded, we beseech you, Heavenly Father, to raise your faithful servant, Michael, to the honours of the altar. God, our Father, protector of the poor and defender of the widow and orphan, you called your priest, Blessed Michael McGivney, to be an apostle of Christian family life and to lead the young to the generous service of their neighbour. Through the example of his life and virtue, may we follow your Son, Jesus Christ, more closely, fulfilling His commandment of charity and building up his Body which is the Church. We humbly ask that You glorify Blessed Michael McGivney on earth according to the design of Your holy will. Through this intercession, grant the favour I now present (here make your request).
